40,000 Men To Reinforce 7th Army

More Equipment Also Ordered In Crisis Buildup

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is about to order perhaps 40,000 men overseas to reinforce Army troops in Germany, it was learned Friday night.

Announcement of this action may come Saturday.

The reinforcements will start moving as soon as possible, sources said. They estimated the first elements might not be ready to go until Oct. 1.

This is another stage in the step-by-step military buildup spurred by the developing crisis over Berlin.

Earlier Friday, it was disclosed that the Army is shipping armored personnel carriers to give U.S. infantry forces in Germany greater mobility and maneuverability.

This stepped-up mechanization is intended to equip U.S. soldiers better to meet on equal terms the highly mechanized Soviet forces they face along the tense Iron Curtain.

American forces in Europe now total about 250,000.

At the core are five combat-ready infantry and armored divisions deployed in Western Germany.

It was understood that reinforcements for the U.S. divisions now in Germany would comprise individual men to fill out understrength units and some whole units to provide combat support and logistics support.

Combat support units generally are signal, engineer, supplementary artillery and the like. Logistics support units are medical, quartermaster, ordnance, and so on.

Some time ago, Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme Allied commander in Europe, asked the Pentagon for 38,000 support-type troops to round out the 7th Army.

On Aug. 11, the Army announced 3,000 troops would cross the Atlantic. At the time, it was said additional men would be trained to follow for the same purpose.

Rusk Declares Reds Courting Disaster

Khrush Wants New Talks With JFK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk warned the Soviet Union Friday night that one-sided action against the free world's vital interests in West Berlin "could only court disaster."

"We expect negotiations on Berlin as soon as it is apparent that negotiations of a serious and constructive character can occur," Rusk added.

However, in a speech for a U.S. Army Association dinner, Rusk gave no hint that the Soviets have indicated interest in such negotiations.

The U.S. foreign affairs chief reported only that "there are channels of communication available between Moscow and the West; they are not being neglected."

As Rusk spoke out, Khrushchev was seen holding open the door for negotiations to settle the Berlin dispute, but not on terms acceptable to their military garrisons.

And Khrushchev appeared to have joined President Kennedy in a reluctance to rush into any summit meeting now.

Earlier in the day, White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said no approach, other than public statements, had been made to the U.S. government by Khrushchev.

Khrushchev said at a Moscow meeting with Indian Prime Minister Nehru that he was ready for "businesslike talks" with Western powers on the mounting Berlin crisis.

Rusk said if peaceful processes in settling the German question are to succeed, "they must be given their chance."

He continued: "This means that unilateral action taken against the vital interests of the free world in West Berlin could only court disaster."

"There have been threats and implied threats of such action in recent weeks, with particular regard to Allied air traffic into Berlin. . . .

"The months ahead will be critical months, and much will turn on the issue of Berlin. . . .

"The problem is whether channels of East-West communications can lead to a meeting of minds, whether peace is a common purpose, whether there are arrangements, in President Kennedy's words, 'consistent with the maintenance of peace and free-

Big 3 Pledge Protection To Allied Flights

Russia Warned Interference Will Not Be Tolerated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Western Big Three told the Soviet Union Friday it has no jurisdiction over Allied flights into West Berlin and said "in the most solemn terms" that any interference with the flights would represent an "aggressive action."

Thus the United States, Britain, and France — in identical notes delivered in Moscow — rejected firmly the Soviet contention that the air corridors from West Germany to West Berlin were assigned only to support their military garrisons.

The notes replied to a Soviet note of Sept. 2.

The incident touched off charges by outraged members of Congress that the Army had let Paar turn the Berlin crisis into a TV spectacular. The episode was branded disgraceful and reprehensible.

In Berlin, Paar said he asked for the troops "more or less to show to their mothers back home."

Assistant Defense Secretary Arthur Sylvester ordered the Army to explain. He said that if reports were true, the incident was a "disgraceful episode" in which Army officers had used very poor judgment. He said he had received a number of complaints.

Sylvester declined to say what disciplinary action might be taken. But he said the incident was potentially dangerous and reflected poorly on the U.S. Army.

Some 50 rifle-carrying soldiers and two colonels showed up for Paar's filming session Thursday at the Friedrichstrasse crossing point. It was the largest contingent of U.S. troops yet sent to the concrete and barbed wire barrier between East and West Berlin.

The notes listed a series of documents drafted by Allied bodies in Germany in contending that the aircraft of the Allies enjoyed full freedom of action in the air corridors. The U.S.S.R., the Western notes emphasized, had "recognized that the air corridors were legitimately used by the civil aircraft of the Allied powers."

Airlines of the United States, Britain, and France began regular flights to West Berlin in the early days of the occupation. There are now 18,000 round-trip flights of civilian aircraft to the Red-surrounded city yearly.

The Western notes derided Soviet allegations that the air corridors were used to smuggle spies and subversive elements through Berlin to Communist East Germany.

"The people of the world are now sufficiently accustomed to the upside-down use of words in the Soviet lexicon not to be deceived by the efforts to mislead them with such labels," the notes said.

Alert Issued Along Gulf Coast Area

Weather Bureau Expects Storm To Hit Late Today

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Hurricane Carla shifted direction slightly in mid-afternoon Friday and veered further westward. Its highest winds still estimated at 125 miles per hour.

The weather bureau in a 4 p.m. advisory located the monster storm about 440 miles south of New Orleans.

The advisory warned of tides two to three feet above normal along much of the Louisiana and Texas coasts and warned lowland residents to move to higher ground.

The Weather Bureau pinpointed Carla at 2.6 north latitude and 89.7 west longitude, moving west-northwest about 10 m.p.h.

The marked switch to the west strengthened the possibility that Carla could hit much further south than originally anticipated, but the Weather Bureau did not speculate on the storm's eventual target.

The advisory said gales extend outward 300 miles to the north and east of center and 125 miles to the southwest. Several ships just off southeast Louisiana, the bureau said, encountered winds 35 to 40 m.p.h. and squally weather.

It happened Thursday night at Marienborn, at the west end of the 110-mile highway that links Berlin with the West.

Witnesses at Helmstedt, on the west side of the border at Marienborn, said the five smashed their truck through two rows of barriers at the Communist checkpoint. Then, before they could make it across, they hit an automobile, killing one passenger and injuring another.

The five were arrested and led away by East German Communist people's police at gun point.

Boehm's daring dash through the Brandenburg Gate, symbol both of German unity and division, was the most unusual escape so far through the walls and barbed wire along the sector border.

"The Communists have set up concrete walls at every crossing point along the border. They now call the border a national frontier. But at the Brandenburg Gate there are only wooden bars in the archways and some barbed wire west of the gate. I thought I would get through," he said.

Boehm knows well the area of his escape. His job was to deliver books from the state-owned book trading company to government offices around Uerden Linden and Brandenburg Gate.

He said he was disgusted with the Red regime because it had split him from his family.

"My father, mother and two elder brothers are all Communists. They were at me all the time to join the party," he said.

Carla churned along a northwesterly course at about 10 miles per hour, the Weather Bureau said, adding it would continue along this path for the next 12 to 18 hours.

While Carla plowed through the gulf, Hurricane Betsy rolled through the Atlantic Ocean off the Massachusetts coast. Betsy's highest winds were estimated at 125 m.p.h., but the storm seemed to be handing in one spot several hundred miles offshore.

Tropical storm Debbie, with winds up to 70 m.p.h., was also in the Atlantic near the Cape Verde Islands but was moving slowly westward.

The Red Cross at New Orleans imported 10 disaster experts from other points in southeastern states and said residents began evacuating Grand Isle, La., 50 miles south of New Orleans, at Land's End at 7 a.m. Friday.

Attention focused on Cameron Parish, 240 miles west of New Orleans. This was the area hit by Hurricane Audrey in 1957, leaving over 500 dead and damage almost uncountable. Evacuation was ordered for all residents living south of the intra-coastal canal beginning this afternoon.

German Youth Makes Daring Bid For Freedom From Reds

Crashes Truck Through Wall At Brandenburg

By JOHN FIEHN

BERLIN (AP) — A young East Berlin truck driver from a Communist family crashed through the heavily guarded Brandenburg Gate Friday in the most spectacular Berlin escape since the Reds shut the border nearly a month ago.

Plucky Hans Boehm, 22, gunned his state-owned delivery truck through a wooden barrier at 60 miles an hour and swept past flabbergasted Communist guards clustered at the stone gate columns with shoot-to-kill orders.

With motor racing, the truck strained against the last barbed wire barricade and burst through into the British sector and safety.

"I didn't want to live under communism any more," Boehm declared. "I figured breaking through the Brandenburg Gate was the easiest way out."

But five other East Germans trying an equally bold break across the Iron Curtain into West Germany were less fortunate. Their bid failed and cost a life.

It happened Thursday night at Marienborn, at the west end of the 110-mile highway that links Berlin with the West.

Witnesses at Helmstedt, on the west side of the border at Marienborn, said the five smashed their truck through two rows of barriers at the Communist checkpoint. Then, before they could make it across, they hit an automobile, killing one passenger and injuring another.

Wildcat Strikes Hurt Auto Industry Talks

DETROIT, Mich. (AP) — Two new wildcat strikes erupted Friday to plague bargainers for General Motors Corp. and the United Auto Workers Union, already striving against time to wrap up a new contract in the face of a company-wide strike deadline of 10 a.m. Monday.

There was a touchiness on both sides already about a continuing three-day wildcat strike in a key GM supplier plant at Pittsburgh, Pa., when new walkouts developed at Janesville, Wis., idling 3,852, and at Flint, Mich. About 350 workers failed to report for the second shift at the Buick engine plant in Flint and milled around outside the gates.

Still on the bargaining table and threatening to run negotiations right up to the strike deadline were noneconomic, national-level issues and thousands of local, at-plant demands for changes in work rules and such. In past negotiations, local strikes have been called to emphasize local-level demands.

GM Vice President Louis G. Seaton, the company's chief negotiator, told newsmen that "the Monday strike deadline is academic if those people don't go back to work."

Asked if GM might break off negotiations if the wildcat strikes continued, Seaton replied, "No. We are going to continue bargaining in there."

And in a move to get Pittsburgh strikers back to the plant, GM announced it would "go to court to get an injunction against illegal picketing." The local union president was attacked when he attempted to escort through the lines the personnel director of the Fisher Body division.

A request for an immediate court order to limit strictly picketing by the UAW at Pittsburgh was rejected by a judge, and a hearing was set for Monday.

There was no immediate comment from either the union or GM.

Unauthorized walkouts erupted at GM plants in the wake of an economic settlement and extension of a 10 a.m. Wednesday strike deadline to next Monday.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther blamed the walkouts primarily on "poor communications and misunderstanding" of the announcement of the deadline extension.

Survey Discloses Religious Views Affect Americans' Jobs, Politics, Family Life

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

A man's religion seems to affect nearly every aspect of his life—his job, his politics and the way he gets along with his relatives.

This is the finding of a survey conducted under auspices of the University of Michigan.

Aimed at discovering the impact of religion on everyday living, it found that both the kind of faith, and extent of devotion, produced measurable differences on people's thinking and conduct in various fields.

"Religion decidedly influences the economic behavior of Americans, from installment buying to their success in the job world," says university sociologist Gerald E. Lenski, who compiled results of the study.

His report, published in a new book, "The Religious Factor," also says that religious views affect political leanings, family life, education and other matters.

Following are some of the conclusions, based on interviews with a cross-section of Protestants, Catholics and Jews in metropolitan Detroit:

Family ties were stronger among both Catholics and Jews than among Protestants. Protestants who were most active in their churches had the fewest contacts with relatives and were most likely to have migrated.

Protestants tend "to turn the interests of individuals beyond the limits of family and kin," Lenski says. In contrast, among devout Catholics, "the church and kin groups seem more often to be mutually re-enforcing."

Protestants and Jews have been more successful than Catholics in competition for better jobs.

Protestants raised by religiously devout parents are more successful than those raised by religiously indifferent parents. However, Catholics reared in devout homes were slightly less successful than those reared in not-so-devout homes.

Protestants and Jewish men were happier in responsible, demanding jobs than Catholic men. Among Catholics, semi-skilled or unskilled workers were more apt to like their work than those in business or professions.

Devout churchgoers—both Catholics and Protestants—tend to have more children than less active members. While both groups are having more children, the increase has been much more rapid among Catholics.

In politics, white Protestants are more strongly inclined to the Republican party, while Catholics, Jews and Negro Protestants are even more strongly inclined to the Democratic party.

Concerning installment buying, Jews are most likely to disapprove. Jews also are most likely to emphasize saving. But working-class Protestants do more saving for "long-range goals," such as a home or education for their children, than any of the middle-class groups.

Jews proved to be the strongest supporters among whites for integrated schools. Jews and Protestants are more likely than Catholics to think a citizen has a right to criticize religion or the president or praise communism or fascism.

The Unquestioned Compulsion

Years ago there were many who disputed the novel idea of free and compulsory public education. The first truancy laws were opposed as infringements on liberty.

But as our children return this fall to schools that will mold their growing minds—does a single parent complain?

I believe in sound religious education, as well. The molding of the character should keep pace with the molding of the mind.

Naturally I never want my government to exercise compulsion in this sacred area. And my Church, while it offers a complete curriculum of religious training, does so on a free and voluntary basis.

But I'm a parent! And, though I find that example and encouragement usually suffice, I'm not above telling Johnny,

"YES, SON, YOU HAVE TO GO TO SUNDAY SCHOOL!"

As a child begins to see the importance of Faith has in our lives and in the strength of our nation . . . you'll be surprised how quickly this becomes an unquestioned compulsion.

Alpha Alpha BSP Plans Socials, Discusses Project

A program of activities was outlined at the first meeting of the fall season of Alpha Alpha Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, held Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Betty Barnes, 1514 Frederick Street.

Mrs. Jeanne Fradiska conducted the business session and gave highlights from the last City Council meeting. Members repeated the opening ritual.

The social committee reported plans for a lasagna party to be held on September 16 to entertain the rushees and their husbands. The meeting of October 4 will be the "model meeting" for pledges of this year and will also be a birthday party for all members of the chapter.

Progress of the "Traveling Basket" was reported by Mrs. Imogene Hixson, chairman of ways and means; and plans were made for the fall rummage sale to be held October 14.

October 29 will be the date for the progressive dinner honoring the pledges, to be held at the homes of Mrs. Fradiska and Mrs. Mildred Russell. Christmas trees will be sold again this year at the Toll Gate Fruit Market.

The chapter plans to hold a "five-cent dinner" during February to entertain husbands and escorts.

Founders' Day will be celebrated.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Spotlighting Grace-Giving Hands

Graceful movements of the hands and arms can't be attempted too consciously or deliberately. Results almost always look affected. True grace, either in gesture or in purposeful action, must come naturally.

This doesn't mean that you can't teach your hands and arms the ways of grace so well that every move they make is charming. They must simply be taught to relax and to get the feeling of easy movement until relaxed, smooth motion becomes a habit. Here are four exercise ways that this can be done:

1. Sit erect with your elbows resting on chair arms and with your forearms perpendicular to it. Make a tight fist and hold it for a count of five, then fling outward, hard.

2. Raise your arms in front of you, palms down, thumbs pointing toward your chest and fingers extended. Stretch each finger so you really feel it, one after another, to touch the thumb.

3. Play imaginary piano scales. Keep the hand in a straight line from the wrist to the middle knuckle. Raise the fingers high and rhythmically and lower them with emphasis.

4. Extend your arm forward at shoulder level and describe small semicircles with the hand as if dipping water from a brook. With each dip, move the hand farther toward the opposite shoulder until it touches it. Reverse direction until the arm reaches behind you.

Run through all four exercises, dropping your hands into your lap or at your sides after each one. Try this sometime to see how restful it is when you are tired. You'll be even more convinced of how much good daily sessions can do.

Hilda Frankenberg Is Bride Of J. A. Deffenbaugh

Miss Hilda Mae Frankenberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Frankenberg, Mt. Savage, became the bride of James A. Deffenbaugh, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Deffenbaugh, also of Mt. Savage, in a ceremony in St. Patrick's Church, Cumberland, September 2, with Rev. Arthur Bassett officiating.

A program of nuptial music was presented before and after the ceremony.

Miss Patricia Deffenbaugh, sister of the bridegroom, was the bridesmaid and only attendant. Thomas Steele, brother-in-law of the bride, served as Mr. Deffenbaugh's best man.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a street-length dress of white pique. With it she wore a white hat and white lace mitts. She carried a white Bible, with a shower of tulle ribbons and covered with a white orchid.

Mr. and Mrs. Deffenbaugh are graduates of Mt. Savage School. They are employed in Washington, and will reside in Takoma Park.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Steele and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Taylor of Takoma Park.

The championships were awarded the last days of the fair which was held August 28 to September 9.

Fine Meters Are Urged By Commissioner

Finance Commissioner Lucile Roeder urged again yesterday that the city install Fine-O-Meters or receptacles to receive fines from parking violators.

The plan, suggested by the commission a week ago, has been termed unworkable and not enforceable by Police Commissioner Philmore Fleming and his staff.

Mrs. Roeder, citing the good will toward the city the plan would create, said she had heard differently from some of the 17 cities in Maryland which have the Fine-O-Meters, installed by the Duncan Meter Company which recently sold the city its new meters.

Beall, Butler Vote
From Local Church

WASHINGTON (AP)—Maryland Republicans John Marshall Butler and J. Glenn Beall voted with the majority Friday as the Senate, by a 73-14 roll call vote, passed a bill to create a new disarmament agency.

Sens. Jennings Randolph and Robert C. Byrd, West Virginia Democrats, also voted for the bill.

City Police are investigating a breaking and entering at Emmanuel Episcopal Church that occurred earlier this week.

Capt. James E. Van reported an estimated $25 was taken from the office of the church secretary.

A dinner will climax the session this evening.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What can I do about a husband who has had $30 worth of illegal parking tickets to pay in five weeks?

The worst of it is he hides the tickets in odd places and when I find them they are unpaid and overdue. When I read the riot act he says he's always been this way and he doesn't think he will ever be any different. He brags that Please tell me what I can do. I didn't know I married a fibber.

— SURPRISED

DEAR SURPRISED: Junior is still playing "Hide the Easter egg" — only he's using parking tickets. Tell him the hunt is over and from now on when you run into a ticket you're going to ignore it. And tell him, too, that when the cop appears with the summons there will be no place to hide.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: No one I have talked to knows the answer to this. I hope you do.

I was mad at my boy friend and wrote him an angry letter. It was twelve pages of pure venom and I felt better after I got it down on paper. Then I walked to the mailbox and dropped it. I noted that the mail would be picked up the next morning at 7:20.

That night I couldn't sleep. I got to thinking about what I had written and decided I had been too hard on him. I also realized that this meant the end of our relationship and I wasn't ready for that.

The next morning I got up early and waited at the mailbox for the good to get the anger out on paper, but "mail" the letter in your drawer until you've had time to cool off and re-read it the following day.

The boy friend got the letter and now we are through. I blame the postman for this. He COULD have given the letter back if he had wanted to, couldn't he?

— MISERABLE

DEAR MISERABLE: It's against the law for the postman to "give a letter back." Once a letter is dropped into the box it becomes the responsibility of the postal authorities to effect delivery.

Let this be a lesson to you. It's good to get the anger out on paper, but "mail" the letter in your drawer until you've had time to cool off and re-read it the following day.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I need a clearer head and a more objective eye than my own at the minute.

— SEETHING

DEAR SEETHING: Say "Thank you" and before you pop a blood vessel, consider the possibility that she liked the hideous little knick-knack so much she bought you one like it.

Man Keeps Trying To Outmode Man

It was said it would never happen, when some dreamy-eyed fiction writer or tinkering scientist in an unguarded moment predicted mechanical monsters which not only did a man's work, but thought like him as well.

No longer. A series of reports on three years of studies by the U. S. Air Force on "certain phases of artificial intelligence" has produced the very discouraging note of progress that advanced computers not only can think, but dream. And speak in a language resembling hieroglyphics.

As its contribution to man's eternal craving to outmode himself completely, the Air Force reports he is succeeding. Apparently with no end in sight, other than to see if it could be done, a computer was taught to play "Go," a 4,000-year-old Chinese game.

From this experiment, scientists have concluded that computers are now "human" and ready to advance from memory chores to deductive reasoning. Just as the physical properties of a certain obstacle can be fed into the machine, so can its antithesis. Going one step further, the machine is able to select its own reaction to a problem, provided its store of "experience" is great enough.

But after deductive reason comes imagination, and all the scientific engineering in the world has not been able to construct an electronic tube capable of projecting theory. Of course, the Air Force has solved this electronic deficiency. It suggests that a human-machine complex be devised to provide that unscientific element needed to spark genuine creativity. There is still some value left in flesh and blood, it seems, if it is only as a minor supplement to metal, wire and glass.

Somehow, this picture doesn't resemble that painted by those who glow with predictions about what machines can do for man. It appears from here to be the other way round.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Problem Of Education

Soon the schools and colleges will re-open and boys and girls will hurl themselves into work which is designed to build their careers, to form their characters, to improve them culturally. Our system of education has come in for very sharp criticism on several sides.

The humanists feel that our students get very little of the humanities, the eternal values of learning, during a four years' course. They feel that the youngsters are being robbed of their time, their money and their opportunities by an inadequate probing into the nearly 10,000 years of human culture which is available to them. Some regard the system of majors as unproductive of the best values that a college can provide.

On the other hand, many parents and employers complain that young people are graduated from our colleges and universities without any skills, any tools, any training in the acquirement of knowledge and the application of what they learned to their life work. In a word, they feel that they are wasting their time.

The humanists say that college is not a trade school; that if the young person wants to master a trade, he should go to a technical school that makes a specialty of his subject. The practical person wants to know why the student, after four years of high school and four years of college, is unfit for anything in particular. Girls can find jobs as secretaries or elementary school teachers although they are trained for neither; boys become stock-brokers or clerks where, if they can learn fast, they can make some money. But how many stock-brokers or bankers have you met who know any economics at all? For them not to know the technical basis of their trade is as wrong as for a stenographer not to be able to spell or for a teacher of history to know no history. The practical man asks about tools; the humanist asks about knowledge. Surely after four years, a student should have one or the other, if not both. The question that needs to be asked is why there are so many complaints about what should be the ordinary results of education.

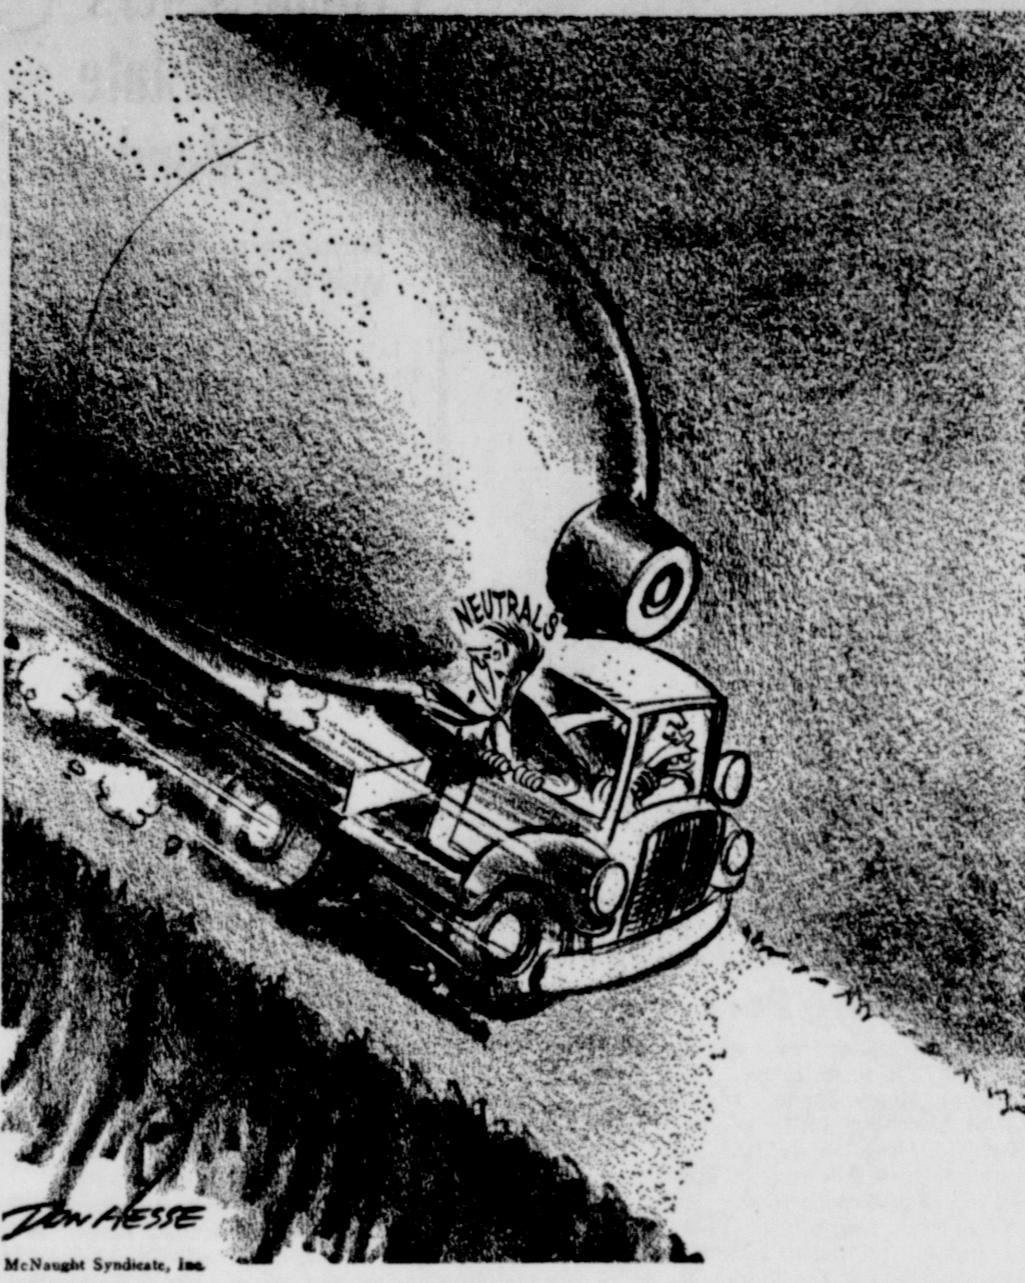

No person can possibly be regarded as educated or cultured who does not know the language and literature and history, at least, of his own people. That, of course, is just a start but it is an essential. No one can constructively contribute to the welfare of his country who does not understand its form and method of government. One meets men who have degrees and even Phi Beta Kappa keys who know nothing about their government, who have no understanding of the techniques of government, who talk about democracy but they have no concept of what the law has to say about that. Such a person might become all excited about some particular issue without any regard as to how it fits into the entire mosaic of his country's structure.

This form of ignorance is not expected of an educated person, just as it is not expected that a person shall not have read the literature of his language. Students go through high school and college whose knowledge of the literature of their native language is as alien as that of a foreign tongue. They therefore are unfamiliar with the roots of their culture. They may have a smattering of Hemingway as they have of Sartre but they are not grounded in Shakespeare or Milton; as for Chaucer, they heard about him and they have read a poem of Longfellow and maybe Poe.

The value of literature is not only amusement. Its main purpose is to bring the reader closer to the nature, the character, the ideals of a people. No one can understand the America of today, particularly our form of government, our insistence upon individualism with a deep communal responsibility, who has not steeped himself in British history upon which our institutions are based.

Our problem then is to review our entire system of education from the elementary school to the graduate courses in our universities to find a technique for handling both cultural and vocational subjects without taking so many years of a person's life. President Kirk of Columbia University has recommended the three semester year which would help to solve the problem of inadequate education, provided we do not make the third semester a summer school makeshift. All this requires much thinking out and much discussion.

'Sure, I'm For Peace!'

What Became Of The Conscience Of Mankind?

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — The testaments of all religions contains the equivalent of the commandment: "Thou Shalt Not Kill." Yet the world today is witnessing a resumption of nuclear tests designed to find more and more weapons that can destroy human life.

This paradox seems to be taken for granted as one of the inevitable consequences of international rivalry. War is roundly denounced as each side professes to be interested in attaining peace whilst the other side is blamed for provocations that could lead to armed conflict.

Governments frown at one another and send out sharply worded diplomatic notes. But the means of disarming reckless men who may bring on war is yet to be discovered. There are no tests to find ways of depriving dictators of the power suddenly to plunge their own country and the world into a nuclear war.

No decision which President Kennedy has made could have caused him more anguish than the authorization to American scientists and military men to resume nuclear tests. Even though the American tests are to be underground and in laboratories, while the Soviets have already held three tests in the atmosphere — presumably producing "fallout" — there is a revulsion of feeling about all of them on the theory that a decision to test means a decision some day actually to use nuclear testing only if the world is challenged to find a way to prevent a disaster of incalculable proportions. But what is being done or likely to be done about it? A group of 25 nations who call themselves "non-aligned" but who, for the most part, play the Communist game has called on the governments at Moscow and Washington to enter into some kind of "summit" conference to secure a peaceful settlement of outstanding issues. Great Britain and France have expressed their concurrence with President Kennedy's action in ordering underground tests and have echoed a widely prevailing sentiment in this country that he had no other choice. Mr. Kennedy has proposed that, before September 9, a new agreement be made to suspend all tests in the air.

But there may be back of the recent moves some other maneuvers by the Soviets that have not yet appeared. It is considered quite possible that only a compelling reason caused Premier Khrushchev to violate all the previous pledges in which he proclaimed his determination to resume nuclear testing in order to determine its effectiveness.

But, assuming that there soon will be a moratorium again on nuclear tests, what assurance has the world that one man in the Kremlin may not take some military step that will compel the use first of smaller nuclear weapons and then later on of the bigger ones? For, once a battle starts, it might be difficult to secure any sudden stoppage, and the final result could be a terrible loss of human lives.

Theoretically, the United Nations was supposed to be a forum in which such a vital subject might be debated. But there are no signs as yet that world opinion has been mobilized to bring about action at the U. N. to require a binding agreement covering not just the tests but the actual weapons in the future.

One would think that the conscience of mankind would be troubled not only that nuclear war is seriously contemplated as a possibility but that no method of restraint has been devised by the peoples of the world to avoid what Prime Minister Lloyd George of Britain in 1919 called "organized murder." For war today with nuclear weapons would be far more a fulfillment of that term than it has ever been in human history.

Washington's liquor - serving laws will have to be changed before patrons can get anything more bracing than a bottle of pop or a malted milkshake. Nevertheless, the restaurant fellows are happy. They claim it proves that a sidewalk cafe can operate without fatal consequences to the morals of the city.

An Ancient Form Of A Well-Known Disease

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

duced about 30 years ago, the inhabitants obtained cash to spend and travel and mingled with outsiders.

The same thing occurred in Arabia and Iraq, and certain backward villages in Turkey, Russia, and the Balkans. In every instance, the disease had existed in endemic form so long as the people remained primitive and untouched by outsiders. The malady as we know it today is the civilized version.

But the condition was transformed from a childhood to a venereal disease with the advancements of civilization and gradual improvements in personal hygiene. When the first highways, schools, and oil wells were introduced, Dr. Hudson believes they are both syphilis, as the causative micro-organisms are indistinguishable, except for minor variations. According to his editorial in the Archives of Internal Medicine, the nonvenereal form is known as endemic because it is present constantly in certain areas of the world. It is the original syphilis that goes back to remote times. Its manifestations are somewhat similar to the venereal form and it responds to antibiotics such as penicillin.

But treatment on an individual basis is not as successful as when the entire family or village receives the medication. Without therapy, many millions must look forward to a life of "discomfort and pain, deformity and mutilation." The disease may shorten life but few die of it per se.

In my opinion, yaws that is endemic in Africa is the same thing.

HEAT REDDENS THE FACE

Mrs. L. W. writes: Why does my face turn beet red when I walk in hot weather? This happens even when I'm not in the sun.

REPLY

The red color comes from blood that rushes to the surface of the skin. The reason why this occurs to you and not to others may need further investigation. You may have a vascular disorder or high blood pressure or your nervous system may be overly active.

HEART AND SOUL

F. A. writes: What is a psychosomatic disease and what is the cure?

REPLY

Psycho refers to the mind and soma to the body. Psychosomatic is a fancy term for a neurosis and treatment centers about the emotional causes of the bodily symptoms.

TEEN-AGE ATTITUDES

Mrs. V. writes: My son used to be a cheerful, happy person but now that he is in his middle teens, he is cynical and low spirited. Is this serious?

REPLY

Probably not. Teen-agers are neither children nor adults and are sensitive to criticism, which may make them low spirited. They often become cynical if not given an opportunity to express their thoughts.

NOT ALL THE TIME

C. D. writes: I have had a red spot on my nose for some time. The doctor says to watch it. How often should I examine the spot?

REPLY

We want to do away completely with the vestiges of World War II while Western countries — United States, Britain and France — are clinging in every way possible to assure their troops access to West Berlin on the basis of occupation rights which stem from the regime of Hitlerite Germany's surrender.

Even if these were true, they may reasonably be said that clinging to vestiges of World War II is preferable to fighting another war that would leave few vestiges of modern life.

The inconsistency of the whole Soviet contention was further exposed by this statement:

"The sovereign countries of the world — and the German Democratic Republic is of their number — are guided by a universally accepted rule: if their routes of communication with other countries run through the territory of third states, then naturally agreement of those third states is always kindled by means of a magnifying glass."

Piedmont Schools Show Decrease In Enrollment

Lack Of Teacher Drops Languages

PIEDMONT—The enrollment of Piedmont School is about 20 less than it was last year, according to Vernon A. Staggers, principal of Piedmont High and Elementary Schools.

This year, registration in the high school is 235 compared with 245 last year and the elementary school, 208 compared to 218 last year.

Col. Gordon L. Beach, Rawlings Heights, former head of the ROTC program of Potomac State College, Keyser, is the new mathematics teacher in the high school. He succeeds Mrs. Margaret Shockley Payne, who resigned to take a position at Beall High School, Frostburg.

Col. Beach holds a B. S. degree from the University of Wisconsin, College of Engineering and did graduate work at the University of Maryland, College Park. He served in the War Department from 1938 until he retired at Potomac State in 1956. He taught at Fort Ashby two years ago.

Other changes in the Piedmont High School faculty includes, Miss Beverly Bryan, Luke, recent graduate of Fairmont State Teachers College, who succeeds Miss Mary Hanna, Westport, commercial teacher who retired. Miss Bryan is also teaching journalism and serves as sponsor of the school paper in the place of Miss Alma Burnworth, retired.

Mrs. Paul Iverson, Keyser, succeeds Miss Burnworth as English teacher and will also teach a class in American history.

No language will be taught in the high school this year, according to Principal Staggers but he hopes to have a Latin teacher next year so students who had first year Latin under Miss Burnworth's instruction may continue that subject.

John W. Edwards, who resigned last year to take a position at Staunton, Va., is being succeeded by Andrew Porter of Keyser. He substituted for Miss Burnworth last spring.

Mrs. Doris Giornesto, Cumberland, is the new girls physical education teacher, succeeding Mrs. Sarah Patterson, who was granted a leave of absence.

Earl J. Paugh, Morgantown, is teaching biology and general science succeeding Jack Booth, who accepted a position at Handley High School, Winchester, Va.

Those who resumed their positions in the high school are Mrs. Ethel Baker, Rodney Baker, Mrs. Mary Ethel Bright, William Miers Jr. and William Sirk.

There are no changes in the elementary school and the teachers include Mrs. Marjorie Anderson, Miss Hazel Armentrout, Mrs. Veronica Bell, Mrs. Grace Bosley, Mrs. Jeanne Chase, Mrs. Betty Dinteman, Mrs. Gladys McDowell and James McHenry.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Sarah A. Mellott, who departed this life on Sept. 9, 1958. The day we will always be One in sad remembrance.

For one we loved with all our hearts. Three years ago was taken from us. We think of her in silence.

When no eyes can see us weep

But many tears are shed.

With a heavy heart we weep.

Some say time heals an aching heart

But no it is not true.

For three long years have passed

And our hearts still ache for you.

There is an open gate

Which we each must go alone,

And there is a light which we cannot see.

Our Father claims His own.

Beyond that gate our loved one

Finds happiness and rest

And there is comfort in the thought

That a loving God knows best.

Sadly missed by her CHILDREN

In loving memory of my dear father and mother, Alonso and Vivian Dorsey, who passed away one year ago today,

Sept. 9, 1960.

Just a line of sweet remembrance,

Just a memory fond and true,

Just a token of love's devotion,

That our hearts still long for you.

Sadly missed by their son,

HOWARD AND FAMILY

State Needs 8 More Hospitals For Emergency

Health Official Cites Preparations

BALTIMORE (AP) — A state health official said Friday Maryland needs eight more emergency hospital units to meet Civil Defense standards which require one facility for each 50,000 persons.

Herbert M. Bateman, the department's program representative for health mobilization, said 32 units already are scattered throughout the state as a medical backstop against nuclear disaster.

Bateman said 32 of the stockpiled units, on loan from the federal government, have been "pre-positioned" at various sites. Another 20 state-owned units are stored at Springfield State Hospital in Sykesville, which is believed far enough away from predicted target areas to be relatively safe from destruction by blast or fire.

Orders for eight additional units have been placed with the federal government, but Bateman said the supply has been running low with two orders for every unit in the federal stockpile.

The units on loan represent a federal expenditure of about $1.1 million. The state-owned units cost Maryland $200,292 on a federal-state matching basis.

Each hospital unit is packaged for long-term storage in 364 crates weighing about 12 tons. Each contains 200 cots, complete with blankets, pillow and sheets.

Also included are two generators, a quick-reading x-ray unit and other basic equipment, a pharmacy, laboratory, equipment for three operating rooms, and surgical and medical supplies.

The units would be set up in schools or other suitable buildings in event of a major disaster. Bateman said a staff of 306 persons would be needed to maintain the facility on a 12-hour shift.

A permanent training unit has been established at Montebello State Hospital in Baltimore and another has been approved for Montgomery County, to be run in cooperation with Columbia Union College.

The 32 federally-equipped hospital units, assigned under contract with national Civil Defense authorities, have been assigned as follows:

Four each to Baltimore City, Baltimore and Montgomery counties; two each in Allegany, Frederick, Washington, Anne Arundel, Harford and Charles counties; and one each in Carroll, Howard, Cecil, Dorchester, Talbot, Wicomico, Prince Georges and St. Marys counties.

LaSalle Men Seek Tryouts For Minstrel

Tryouts for the annual Men of LaSalle minstrel, which will be staged next month, will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. in Carroll Hall.

The announcement was made yesterday by Brother D. Jeremy, FSC, principal of LaSalle High School, and C. W. Painter, president of the Men of LaSalle.

Brother J. Thomas, FSC, moderator for Men of LaSalle, said that again this year John J. O'Donnell, graduate of the high school, will be writer, producer and director of the minstrel.

He will be assisted by Charles Offutt, Thomas Connelley and Sidney Storer Jr. The production staff will be headed by Miss Mary Jo Simpson.

Brother Anthony, FSC, will be moderator for the cast and stage crew. Needed for the cast are male and female vocalists, dancers including tap and toe, comedy skit participants and group singers.

Mr. O'Donnell said that since the production will be a city-wide effort, interested persons of all age groups are welcome to try out for the show.

Students of local parochial and high schools and interested adults have appeared in previous productions which date back to 1938.

Beans Are Burned At Local Dwelling

A change in the menu was necessary yesterday at a Central Avenue home when a pot of beans burned on the kitchen stove.

Firemen from East Side station were called at 1:00 p. m. and used a smoke ejector to clear smoke from the dwelling in the 400 block.

When the firefighters arrived on the scene the occupant had removed the pot from the stove and had taken it out on the back porch.

Sentinel Launches Drive

The Sentinel, Fort Hill High School student newspaper, resorted to a little quiet horn-tooting yesterday to persuade students to subscribe. The paper's staff displayed some of the many awards the Sentinel has won, including the title of best junior-senior high school paper in Maryland for three years, national All-

Columbian honors for editorials, typography and headlines, and seven years of Freedoms Foundation of Valley Forge awards for its editorials. Miss Mary M. Calemine is advisor, editors are Jane Beery and Jonelle Miller. Staffers inspecting the paper are Margaret Skitarelic, Peggy Groves and David Lewis.

Prisoner Jailed To Start His Four-Year Term

Two of the football players in last night's game between LaSalle and Fort Hill high schools at Fort Hill stadium ended up in Memorial Hospital, one of them with a fractured leg.

Wayne Kyhos, 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Kyhos, 822 Windsor Avenue, a LaSalle player, sustained a fractured right leg and was admitted.

David R. Houser, student at Fort Hill, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Houser, 124 Arch Street, was X-rayed and released from the hospital. He sustained a right ankle injury, attaches said.

After Wright received his four year sentence on October 21, 1959, he appealed to the Maryland Court of Appeals. At the conclusion of a two-day trial October 20, 1959, an Allegany County Circuit Court jury had found him guilty of attempted burglary and being a rogue and vagabond in having burglary tools in his possession.

Eventually, the Maryland Court of Appeals affirmed the court here. But by that time, Wright had run afoul of the law in Hamilton County, Ohio, at Cincinnati. He was convicted in Hamilton County of possession of burglary tools and was sentenced to one to five years in the Ohio Penitentiary at Columbus.

Allegany County Deputy Sheriff William E. Orr Jr. and George B. Staup were in Columbus Thursday to greet Wright upon his discharge from the Ohio Penitentiary. Sheriff Paul C. Haerlein had a detainer placed against Wright at Columbus. Wright waived extradition and was returned to jail here.

Wright, Charles S. Isaacs, then 32, of Newport, and Andrew J. Forkes, 5, Phoenix, Ariz., were apprehended by city police on August 27, 1959, who said that Wright was tampering with a lock on the George Street side of the Montgomery Ward store.

Harold Jacobs is president of the Young People's Society of the local church.

The weekly revival service will feature the "Musical Fred Bertolet," Rev. and Mrs. Fred Bertolet, of Reading, Pa., who are nationally-known evangelists and musicians of the Church of the Nazarene.

A graduate of Albright College, Reading, Pa., and Allentown (Pa.) Bible Seminary, Rev. Mr. Bertolet is in great demand as an evangelist.

His wife attended Eastern Nazarene College in Wollaston, Mass.

Harold Jacobs is president of the Young People's Society of the local church.

New Hours Listed For South End Library

The South Cumberland Branch of Allegany County Library will be open from noon until 4:30 p. m. on Monday and from noon until 4 p. m. Tuesday through Friday during the fall and winter months. Mrs. Ralph Rice, librarian, announced yesterday.

Traffic Recorder Counts 2,100 Vehicles

A traffic counter placed on Baltimore Street Thursday at noon registered a total of 15,553 vehicles traveling on the main stem in the first 24 hours' operation. A breakdown of the figures showed 2,100 cars passing over the counter during the peak hours between 3 and 5 p. m.

Another counter was placed on Liberty Street yesterday. Eventually about 25 stations in the city and on main highways in outlying areas will be checked with the counters for comparison with a 1949-50 traffic study made here, according to Charles R. Nuzum, city engineer.

The present survey is being made at the request of James H. Woglom, planning consultant for Morris K. Cowles Inc., which has been selected to prepare a comprehensive plan for the city's future.

Missionaries Left Estate Of County Man

Edward Fields, who was a 67-year-old retired coal miner at the time of his death August 27, left his entire estate to the Pentecostal Assembly of God Foreign Missionaries, Springfield, Mo.

The will of Mr. Fields, who had resided in Midlothian, was probated yesterday in Allegany County Orphans Court.

Rev. James L. Tate, pastor of the Pentecostal Assembly of God Church, Midlothian, qualified as executor of the estate under a $500 bond. The will, dated September 28, 1954, had stipulated that whoever should be pastor of the Midlothian church at the time of his death would be the executor of the estate.

Mr. Fields was the last member of his family.

County Voters Total 40,088 As Of Sept. 1

Downward Trend Still Continues

Allegany County still had more than 40,000 registered voters as of September 1 but the downward trend continued during the month of August. The total was 40,088.

During August there were 17 new registrants in the office of the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors in the Court House basement but they were more than offset by 41 removals.

Republicans continued to hold a healthy registration edge September 1 although the margin was whittled down in August. The voters as of the first of the month included 22,297 Republicans (10,994 men and 11,303 women), 17,471 Democrats (8,870 men and 8,601 women), 310 independents (219 men and 91 women) who declined to list political affiliation, eight Socialists (five men and three women), and two members of other parties, one man and one woman.

The registered voters included 39,680 white persons, 405 Negroes and three of other color.

John R. Kelly, Democratic registrant, and Irvin J. Neat, Republican registrar, signed up 10 new Republicans, six new Democrats and one new independent during August.

Names of some 35 deceased registrants were removed from the books. There were 26 Republicans and nine Democrats among those deceased voters. Names of six other registrants, three Democrats and three Republicans, were removed at their request to register elsewhere.

Also, during August 48 transferred from one district or precinct to another, 26 changed their name or address only and two changed political affiliation, both from Republican to Democrat.

Although the state and county primary election will not be held until next May, prospective new voters may register now. The office in the Court House basement is open from 9 a. m. until noon and from 1 to 4 p. m. each Monday through Friday.

Those who wish to change political affiliation have until November 14 to do so. No changes are allowed within six months of the primary election.

Central YMCA physical facilities—swimming pool, gymnasium and weight-lifting rooms—will be opened for the fall and winter schedule starting Monday, according to Benjamin F. Haines, YMCA program director.

For the past two weeks, the "Y" physical department facilities and the locker room areas have been undergoing a general painting and repair period and are now ready for the busy season ahead.

Health Club hours for both men and women members will continue as they have been. Hours for men are Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 9 a. m. until 9 p. m., and on Saturdays until 7 p. m. Women's hours are Tuesday and Thursday from 9 a. m. until 9 p. m.

George Burns Getting 'Kick' In New Show

On Sunday, September 17th, George Burns will talk about a subject he knows best—comedy.

His platform will be a television project titled, "Laughter, USA," the opening gun in NBC's ambitious new "Du Pont Show of the Week" series (10:00-11:00 PM NYT.) As visual aids Burns will have hilarious film clips illustrating the artistry of Will Rogers, Buster Keaton, Laurel and Hardy, W. C. Fields, Jack Benny and other outstanding comics.

"This is really a labor of love," said Burns, puffing on a murky cigar. "Comedy has been my whole life."

Actually, Burns went through seven years of childhood before he appeared in front of an audience.

"And not much of an audience," either," he admitted. "Some friends and I formed the PeeWee Quartet. It was our answer to the child labor laws. We stood on street corners, singing and telling jokes for pennies."

From that time on, George Burns was determined to be a performer. By the time he was in his twenties, he had appeared as a juggler, ballroom dancer and trick roller skater.

George admits that preparing for the TV chores has been "more like fun than work." Some fifteen hours of vintage comedy film were gathered, and George looked at much of this footage in an NBC projection room.

STARS IN 'GIGOT' — Jackie Gleason, long a TV star, has the lead role as a deaf mute in new film, "Gigot." He's shown here with little Diane Gardner, 5, who appears with him.

Jackie Gleason Still Contradictory Self

PARIS (NEA) — In a corner of the Bois de Boulogne, Jackie Gleason was being made to look like a bum.

He had grown a beard, and he was dressed in ragged clothes. And, to fit in with the script of the picture he was shooting, Gleason was receiving the bruises and blood of a fight victim.

But the problem was little Diane Gardner, the five-year old girl who appears with him in "Gigot".

"Hey, Diane," Gleason called. "Catch this kiss."

And he blew her a little kiss. She made a half-hearted gesture and Gleason laughed.

"That's no way to catch a kiss," he said. "Throw me one and I'll show you."

He seemed doubtful, but complied. He made a broad gesture of nabbing the kiss in mid-air, rolled it up between his two hands and stuffed it into his ear. Diane stood there, with the beginning of a smile on her serious little face. And she threw him another kiss.

Even when they began shooting, the game continued. Gleason plays a mute in the picture, a kind of Gallic Poor Soul and, in this scene, he was being roughed up by two bullies. They rehearsed endlessly, to get the right action. Between rehearsals, Jackie and Diane would resume the game.

"Gigot" is an expensive film.
